Comments: Due to the application detail being contradicted in description of the conservatory being for horticultural purposes and the building design detail confirming construction is of slate roof construction- this leads us to believe the additional building will be over bearing and not in keeping with the neighbourhood, it is to be noted that this applicant has constructed boundary walls which are not in keeping with the overall appearance of neighbouring build type, the same applicant has constructed additional parking to the rear shared driveway on land which is not under there property deeds, thus going against shared drive way caveats. We feel as neighbours this type of construction will not be built to application details and that again with previous building works they will seek a way around planning permissions and neighbouring owners will be left with eyesore building and this will devalue our properties if we decide to sell our property in the future, Applicant has Astro turf as a garden and their reference to horticulture and wanting to expand their ability to plant in this new building doesn't reference actual outcome for this building.
