Dear Sir

Re: Proposed demolition of the rear glass porch and part of the single storey rear extension to accommodate a parking bay
Fairfield Station Road Caerleon Newport NP18 1NH
Pl.App.No.: 25/0772

Thank you for consulting us about this application; consequently we have reviewed the detailed information contained on your website.

We have consulted the regional Historic Environment Record and note that the proposal is located in an area of archaeological potential. It is immediately outside the walls of the Roman fortress of Isca close to the extent of the defences, such as ditches. A stone coffin of Roman date, as well as a separate human burial also of Roman date, have been discovered a short distance to the west. The development is also located within the Newport Archaeologically Sensitive Area (ASA).

As a result, we have previously recommended archaeological mitigation for applications in the vicinity. However, the current application is for the demolition of a porch and extension to create a parking bay. As such the proposal is limited in scale and in an area that has already been disturbed by construction activities. Overall, it is unlikely that significant archaeological remains will be encountered during the course of the proposal.

As a result, there is unlikely to be an archaeological restraint to this proposed development and consequently, as the archaeological advisors to your Members, we have no objections to the positive determination of this application. The record is not definitive, however, and features may be disturbed during the course of the work. In this event, please contact this division of the Trust.

If you have any questions or require further advice on this matter please do not hesitate to contact us.

Yours faithfully

R. Dunning
